COACH SHOWS ABILITY

Doctor Sharpe Picked as Greatest All-Round Athlete.

Physical Director of Michigan University Picks Cornell Man as Best of Sprinters and Gymnasts in Every Respect.

From time to time athletes have been put forward as the perfect specimen of all-around athletic ability and development. Now comes forward one of the best athletic authorities in the country, Dr. A. C. May, physical director of the University of Michigan, to pick a Philadelphian for this honor. Doctor May, a former Yale man, who has been rated as a real Mike Murphy by those who know athletics, says that Dr. Al Sharpe, who now is the football, baseball and basketball coach at Cornell university, is the greatest living all-around athlete today.

"Doctor Sharpe now is coaching Cornell university in three major sports, baseball, football and basketball, and getting results in all three," said Doctor May. "He played all of these games with equal merit, and I say that he was the greatest basketball player I ever saw. He was a brilliant football player, especially in the drop-kicking department, and in baseball he was a wonder. He had numerous offers from the Athletics to play ball in past seasons. He could pitch and play first base and was an ambidextrous thrower."

"Look at him once and you will see the reason for his success. He is six feet one inch tall and weighs 150 pounds. He is evenly proportioned and over his build not in athletics, but to gymnastics, and he owes his athletic success not to his build so much as to his ability to handle his body, which he developed in the gymnasium. He can handle himself on the bars and rings and other apparatus with as much skill as he can play football and other sports. He can turn a backward and forward flip and he knows the other tricks of a gymnast. "He is fast on his feet still. In officiating in big college games I have seen him outrun some of the fastest men on the football field, keeping with them on their long runs to the touchdowns. Sharpe could row, run a fine relay, jump, put the shot, and, in fact, do about anything on the athletic field."

Big league company naturally had its lures for Al Sharpe, the same as other men who have made athletics and the physical man a study. The colleges of the east looked upon his work with wistful eyes. Cornell finally drew the prize. His success with baseball and basketball made him the logical candidate to fill Glenn Warner's shoes with the football squad. He was given the place, and if persistence and the study of man will win, Sharpe has a bright future ahead.

KOJI YAMADA A WONDERFUL BILLIARDIST

Koji Yamada.

One of the best billiard players in the world today is Koji Yamada, the Japanese marvel of the cue. Yamada had appeared in matches with the other cracks of the green cloth in various cities of the country and few of them can show to better advantage at the gentleman's game than the Jap.

Yamada is improving in his game right along and hopes some day to be able to wrest the title of champion from Willie Hoppe. The Jap has a wonderfully delicate stroke. Billiards have come to be quite popular among the Japanese and there are a number of good players in the little empire of the far East.

Yamada learned the principles of the game in Germany, where he was a student before he took to billiards as a means of livelihood.

SPITBALL HAS PASSED

Spitball pitching seems to be going out. There are now very few successful hurlers who use the moist delivery, and even those who cling to it do not depend upon it as they once did. A few years ago spitballers were all the rage, and no team was complete without one, but there are now few pitchers of class who use the saliva ball to any extent.

The main reason for this is that the constant use of the spitball has proved to be disastrous, in many cases, to the pitching arm of the man using it. To control the spitter requires a great strain on certain muscles of the forearm, and very few steady users of it have lasted long.

SILKY BELL IS BIG WINNER

Canton Horseman So Disgusted With Trotter Two Seasons Ago That He Sold Her for Song.

Silky Bell lost one race this season, and the great Jack K. beat her in that. She had been a big winner this year, but two seasons ago Gelhardt, a Canton (O.) horseman who then owned her, was so disgusted with her that he said he'd never race her again and that anybody who wanted her could have her.

She had made a mark of 2:15 1/4 on the half-mile track and then had gone lame. He sent her to a Chicago sale and she was knocked down for $250 to George Twist, a Pennsylvania horseman, who now holds her at a price up in the thousands.
